Lisa Williams vs. Kenneth Williams: Docket No.: 2017-CP-40-03886

On March 18, 2017, Kenneth Williams was driving west on Broad River Road in Columbia, South Carolina. Ms. Williams, who is of no relation to Kenneth Williams, was in her vehicle stopped for traffic when Kenneth Williams struck the back of Ms. Williams' vehicle at a high rate of speed.

After the collision occurred, Kenneth Williams was observed by witnesses tossing a bottle of whiskey outside of his vehicle. Several witnesses to the wreck reported smelling alcohol coming from Kenneth Williams – including Ms. Williams and the investigating Trooper from the South Carolina Highway Patrol. When questioned about the whiskey bottle that was tossed out of his vehicle, and the alcohol that the witnesses could smell, Mr. Williams stated that he was not drinking while driving and denied that the bottle was his. He was ultimately charged with driving too fast for conditions and driving with an open container of alcohol.

Ms. Williams, along with myself, believed that Kenneth Williams was intoxicated by alcohol at the time of the wreck. Ms. Williams was injured in the wreck and went through months of medical treatment to recover from her injuries. Additionally, her vehicle was totaled. However, her major concern was that Kenneth Williams may engage in similar conduct and eventually hurt or kill another driver on the road in the future if he escaped being held responsible for his actions.

Initially, the insurance company only offered Ms. Williams a little over $3,000.00 for her medical expenses, pain, suffering and the reckless conduct of Kenneth Williams for his actions that day. We both believed the settlement offer was insulting. However, after filing a lawsuit on behalf of Ms. Williams and exposing the reckless conduct that occurred, I was able to force this same insurance company to pay Ms. Williams a settlement that was over 10 times the amount of her medical bills.

Protecting our community by holding people responsible for their actions is a core principle of my law firm. Ms. Williams is now able to rest a little easier at night knowing that Kenneth Williams will- hopefully- think long and hard before putting our community in danger again.

p. 03 STAR OF THE QUARTER

I am truly humbled to have received the South Carolina Bar Young Lawyers Division's Star of the Quarter Award for the fourth quarter of the 2017 – 2018 Bar Year. This award is given to those who have unselfishly devoted their valuable time to the furtherance of the South Carolina Bar Young Lawyers Division's initiatives during the preceding quarter.

p. 03 FIGHTING FOR JUSTICE IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

We began our day of lobbying with an encouraging message from Congressman John Lewis of Georgia. Congressman John Lewis a legendary civil rights activist who marched and fought for justice and equality with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and has continued to fight for justice and equality as a Congressman in Washington, D.C. since 1986.

VISION STATEMENT, MISSION STATEMENT & CORE VALUES

Becoming a lawyer will always be one of the greatest honors of my life. I consider it a privilege to fight for justice on behalf of my clients. Seeing that my clients receive justice is a core principle that guides my law firm.

This is our first newsletter, so I thought it only fitting to share the vision statement, mission statement, and core values of Bailey Law Firm, L.L.C. Every great organization has a clear vision, mission, and core values. Here's ours.

"EVERY GREAT ORGANIZATION HAS A CLEAR VISION, MISSION, AND CORE VALUES. HERE'S OURS."

MISSION STATEMENT

Bailey Law Firm, L.L.C., is committed to relentlessly advocating for the rights of individuals, families, workers, and consumers and when they need it most. Attorney Tyler D. Bailey and his staff at Bailey Law Firm are devoted to pursuing justice and accountability for those who have been injured or harmed due to the misconduct and negligence of others. We also navigate the criminal justice system to obtain the best possible outcomes for our clients who are facing criminal charges and resolve various domestic relations issues for our clients in family court. Not only are we committed to zealously advocating for our clients, we are dedicated to bettering our community and the world in which we live. Because of our commitment to our community, we dedicate a percentage of profits to philanthropy and various non-profits throughout South Carolina.

"I CONSIDER IT A PRIVILEGE TO FIGHT FOR JUSTICE ON BEHALF OF MY CLIENTS."

VISION STATEMENT

To seek justice, uphold the rights of the people, and make our community a better place.

Core Values

- Providing our clients a standard of excellence throughout the course of representation.
- Being known as a legal powerhouse for our exceptional results and work in the community.
- Providing an avenue for the people to seek justice and accountability no matter how big or powerful the competing interest is.
- Upholding and preserving the rights of the people.
- Educating the public of the rights afforded to them.
- Making our community a better place.

FIGHTING FOR JUSTICE IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

Last month I participated in the American Association for Justice Minority Caucus Lobby Days in Washington, D.C. It was a phenomenal success and a truly rewarding experience. We began our day of lobbying with an encouraging message from Congressmen John Lewis of Georgia. Congressmen John Lewis a legendary civil rights activist who marched and fought for justice and equality with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and has continued to fight for justice and equality as a Congressmen in Washington, D.C. since 1986. I represented the citizens of South Carolina and was joined by a diverse group of minority lawyers from across the country to lobby Congress on two pieces of legislation that are important for working people – The Arbitration Fairness Act and The End Forced Arbitration of Workplace Sexual Harassment & Discrimination Act. These bills restore working class people with the right to have a trial by jury amongst their peers against big corporations who are currently preventing this through forced arbitration. I'm pleased to report that after our discussions, many of our elected officials from South Carolina were open to signing the bills as co-sponsors.

" THESE BILLS RESTORE WORKING CLASS PEOPLE WITH THE RIGHT TO HAVE A TRIAL BY JURY AMONGST THEIR PEERS AGAINST BIG CORPORATIONS WHO ARE CURRENTLY PREVENTING THIS THROUGH FORCED ARBITRATION. "

SOUTH CAROLINA BAR YOUNG LAWYERS DIVISION'S STAR OF THE QUARTER AWARD

I am truly humbled to have received the South Carolina Bar Young Lawyers Division's Star of the Quarter Award for the fourth quarter of the 2017 – 2018 Bar Year. This award is given to those who have unselfishly devoted their valuable time to the furtherance of the South Carolina Bar Young Lawyers Division's initiatives during the preceding quarter. I was given this award for my efforts and contributions to the Protecting

Our Youth Mass Day which is a program that educates at-risk middle and high school students across South Carolina on the consequences of their actions and how their actions can and will impact their future. I was also recognized for my expertise given during a free legal seminar during the Community Law Week Question & Answer at St. Lawrence Place.
